

METHOD FOR PROVIDING GATED NETWORK ACCESS

ABSTRACT

The present invention is generally directed to methods for an entity to provide access to Internet websites associated with the entity to customers that currently do not have Internet access. Additional methods are provided for billing an entity associated with a website for access to the website by the entity's customers.